The Springfield, Mad River, and Yellow Springs Turnpike Company filed a petition in the court of common pleas last Saturday, against the city of Springfield, asking the court to assess the value of, and grant judgment for, so much of the plaintiff's turnpike road, including bridges and culverts, as has been included in the city limits by the extension thereof, between the present corporation line as extended on the south and west, and a point in plaintiff's road at the southeast corner of the Clark county fair grounds.

Mr. R. W. Flack calls upon the GLOBE REPUBLIC to say that he had no fight whatever with his brother-in-law, James Huffman, was not arrested, and hence had no bail to put up for either himself or Huffman, as reported in this paper. Mr. Flack was only trying to persuade his brother-in-law to go home, and a friendly scuffle ensued, and that was all there was of it. The account was given to our reporter and was regarded as reliable. We are now assured of the error, and gladly make the correction.

RETURN OF THOMAS DUGAN.

Interview with the Proprietor of the St. James on His Return from Ireland.

Mr. Thomas Dugan, proprietor of the St. James hotel, returned Saturday evening from an eight weeks' visit to Ireland, his fatherland. Mr. Dugan left Ireland some seventeen years ago to make his home in this country, and this was his first visit to his relatives there since he came here.

A GLOBE REPUBLIC reporter saw Mr. Dugan at his place of business last night, and asked him a few questions about his trip. Mr. Dugan said he had left Springfield July 18th last, had visited various cities in Ireland, and also the City of London, but did not go over to the continent. He spoke particularly of the City of Dublin as one of the finest cities he ever saw.

"How does the condition of the Irish people compare with what it was when you left?"

"I find a decided improvement in the intelligence of the people, but so far as their material prospects are concerned, I don't see that they are any better."

"How do the people stand on the question of home rule? Do most prefer home rule to making Ireland a crown colony, as is proposed?"

"O, yes, a vast majority of the people prefer home rule. They feel that if they could get home rule their national troubles would be at end. Home rule is what they want."

"How do they regard Mr. Parnell? As a true representative of their principles, or otherwise?"

"They, that is, the vast majority of them, regard Parnell as the greatest advocate of their rights they ever had."

Mr. Dugan also stated that the dynamites were indorsed by very few Irish people. The better classes are bitterly opposed to the dynamite warfare and prefer a more peaceful agitation to secure their rights. Also, that the competition of American grain and American cattle was very discouraging to the farmers, as with their facilities they could not begin to compete with America.

A Bad Character.

Yesterday morning, when Officers Mast and Norton were walking past the corner of Main and Center streets, they heard some person, evidently under the influence of liquor, using very profane language toward some ladies, who were passing by. Hardly had they gotten up to him when he picked up a piece of coal and struck a man, who happened to be passing by, full in the mouth with it. He was immediately arrested, and now languishes in the city jail.

BARLOW, WILSON &amp; RANKIN.

The Best Minstrel Troupe Which Visits Springfield.

The Grand was well filled last evening and a right royal welcome given to the old favorites, Barlow, Wilson & Rankin. The company this season is especially strong and the performance given is immense. Nothing could be better, and it is little wonder that to these artists have been accorded the title of leaders. The music, dancing and comicities were new, fresh and full of life. Finney & Wayne in their artistic manipulations brought down the house, and well deserved the rounds of applause they received. George Wilson, the ever popular comedian, was at his best, as was Barlow and the rest of the boys. The troupe is the best on the road and should have a big reception everywhere.

Methodist Appointments.

WANT IT ANYWHERE.

Supplemental Motion to Vacate the Sale of the Kinney Property.

Saturday afternoon, A. H. Gillett, attorney for the Kinney heirs, filed in the common pleas court a supplemental motion to set aside the sale of that portion of their real estate which was sold at sheriff's sale August 22d.

The purchasers at the sale, and the amount bid by each, were as follows: E. W. Simpson, $13,700; George Simpson, $5,334; Thomas Hall, $775; E. N. Tibbitts, $900, and Charles W. Constantine, $10,950. Following is the full text of the motion:

Thomas Kinney, p'd, Court of Common Pleas, Clark county, Ohio. Motion to set aside sale.

H. J. Creighton et al., d'f's. Motion to set aside sale.

And now comes the defendant, H. J. Creighton, Mary K. Creighton, Charlotte Kinney and Robert M. Kinney, and move the court to set aside the sale made in this case by the sheriff of Clark county, Ohio, on the 23d day of August, 1885, for the following reasons, to wit:

First—Because of the mistakes and irregularities in the proceedings, advertisement and sale, affecting the title to the property so sold.

Second—Because said real estate so sold was appraised too low.

Third—Because the sale was not advertised for the length of time required by the statute.

Fourth—Because the said property was not appraised by the appraisers in proper and actual view of the premises, as required by law.

Fifth—Because the property was not advertised to be sold in a newspaper of general circulation in Clark county, Ohio.

Sixth—Because the property, and each piece thereof, was sold at a great sacrifice, and far below its actual value.

Seventh—Because in case of re-sale the property will sell for a much larger sum on its being duly and properly advertised.

Eighth—Because the sheriff of Clark county sold a larger amount of real estate than was necessary to satisfy the judgments, findings and orders of sale recited in the writ.

Ninth—Because each of the pieces of real estate was sold by the sheriff under an advertisement and order of sale recited in the writ, whereas, the separate orders of sale were not each directed against all of the tracts of land sold by the sheriff.

Tenth—Because the order of sale was improperly and irregularly issued in one writ, when it should have been in separate writs and against the separate pieces of real estate ordered to be sold.

Eleventh—Because of a conspiracy between the bidders at the sale of said real estate, especially the bidders on tracts No. 4 and 5, and by which conspiracy the said real estate did not bring its value.

H. J. CREIGHTON, Plaintiff.

MARY K. CREIGHTON, Charlotte Kinney and Robert M. Kinney, Defendants.

By their attorney A. H. Gillett.

A SERIOUS FIGHT.

An Altercation That May End in Man-slaughter.

Yesterday afternoon Constable Brown went to Yellow Springs to capture Andy Duly on a warrant issued by Squire Rightmyer, on the ground of assault committed on the person of another colored man named Beverly Rummage, last Monday. It seems that the two men were working together in a gravel pit between this city and Yellow Springs. They got into a quarrel and a rough and tumble fight ensued, in the course of which Duly struck Rummage on the head with a shovel, fracturing his skull. The wounded man was carried to a farm house near by where medical assistance was summoned. As it was thought that he would soon recover his assailant was let go. But instead of improving, Rummage has grown worse steadily until now there are serious fears that he will die. If the case does result fatally, it will bring the charge of manslaughter against Duly.

HOW ARE GOT EVEN.

A Neglected Wife Goes on a Frolic for a Week at Coney Island.

New York World.

Five small children seated around the breakfast table and crying for their mamma, was the sight that met David Faldenberg's gaze on the 20th inst.

"When you hear your mamma?" he asked.

"She's gone," said the eldest child, a girl of seven, "and she left this for you," and she handed him a note. It ran as follows:

"Did you expect me to believe the story you told me last night about being sunstruck and laid up for a week? No! I didn't believe a word. You've been off humming again. I looked at your bank-book while you were sleeping tonight and saw that you took out $75. I'm going to give you a dose of your own medicine. We had the care of the children for a week, and now I'll let you do it. I've taken only $50 out of the bank, and I'm going to stay away for a week and have a splendid time. Don't look for me, for you can't find me."

Faldenberg, who lives in Jersey City, telegraphed for his mother to let the house in her care while he went to look for his wife. He found her at Coney Island yesterday, and he ordered her home. She said she would return when he was ready. She came to this city and visited her mother, No. 36 Hayward street. "My wife won't be up until tomorrow," she replied to her husband when he requested her to come home with him. He called Policeman McManus, who went with the couple to the Tombs. Counter charges were preferred, and they were committed to Justice Power. He lectured the husband and dismissed the charges.
